

About Computer lab

The department of Science and Humanities consists of one computer lab for all branches of I/IV B. Tech students. The lab is suitably arranged to impart knowledge in c-programming in a neatly designed and spacious laboratory with a capacity to accommodate 64 DELL systems with two programmers. A complete demonstration is carried out by the faculty members for each program to help the students in better understanding and able to execute the programs on their own.

